Financial Policies of «Eitiqad» Journal for Theological Studies and Philosophy of Religion

1. Open Access:

«Eitiqad» Journal for Theological Studies and Philosophy of Religion is a fully open-access journal. All published content is available for reading, downloading, and sharing free of charge immediately upon publishing, without the need for a subscription, registration, or any financial payment.

2. publishing Fees:

The journal does not charge researchers any fees for the submission, processing, peer review, or publishing of articles (Article Processing Charges/Submission Charges). The acceptance or rejection of an article is entirely independent of any financial considerations.

3. Funding Sources:

The journal covers its costs through one or more of the following sources:

- Support from the journal's owner or publisher.
- Sponsorships and partnerships with institutions.
- Advertisements.
- Voluntary donations.

4. Editorial Independence:

No funding source influences editorial decisions, the peer-review process, or the selection of content for publishing. Scholarly decisions remain the sole prerogative of the editorial board.

5. Advertisements and Sponsorship:

- Advertisements and sponsored content are clearly distinguished from scholarly content.

- Advertisements are not displayed within scholarly articles, nor are they presented in a way that implies an association with the content of those articles.
- The journal reserves the right to reject any advertisement that does not align with its professional and ethical standards.
- The journal assumes no responsibility for the information provided in advertisements, nor for the products or services offered by advertisers.

6. Donations and Voluntary Support:

- Donations are entirely optional and do not grant the donor any preference regarding publishing, peer review, or influence over editorial policy.
- Donations are used exclusively to cover operational costs and the development of the journal.
- Payments are processed through trusted third-party payment gateways; the journal does not store bank card information.
- Donations are non-refundable once completed, except in the event of a clear technical error, which must be reported within [7] days.

7. Readers:

The journal does not request any banking information from its readers. If you receive a message impersonating the journal and requesting funds, please disregard it and notify us via [email address].

8. Transparency:

The journal is committed to disclosing its primary sources of funding upon request and will not accept any support that compromises its independence or scientific values.

9. Policy Amendments:

The journal reserves the right to amend this policy. Updated versions will be published on this page, along with the date of the update. Last updated: 3/11/2026.
